Last Week:

Guests:

Jim Chitwood, Bob & Karen Stauffer
from the SW Club

Program:

Dr. Tom Hallquist, member of the Southwest Club explained the goal of supplying Solar Cookers for developing parts of the world. The goal is to minimize deforestation that leads to desertification and environmental damage. The number one use of wood in the world is for cooking fires. In arid areas the deforestation leads to desertification and the destruction that brings.

The regions most susceptible to this cause and effect also have a lot of sunshine.

Perfect for using Solar Cookers to replace wood cooking fires.

Dr. Halquist had several models on display. He also showed pictures of the devices being used in Haiti as well as in his backyard.
